WHY SHOULD

you sponsor?

Partnering with ArQHA gives you the unique opportunity to connect and engage with consumers and decisions makers in the equestrian show industry and beyond.

For the past few years, ArQHA had exhibitors from 17 different states come and compete: Alabama, Arkansas, California, Delaware, Florida, Kentucky, Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Ohio, Tennessee, Texas, and South Carolina.

ArQHA exhibitors range from hobby horse owners to breeding barns to full time ranchers and more. Costs incurred by owners include more than just vet bills and feed for horses. It includes purchasing trucks, horse and utility trailers, campers and RVs, tractors, ATVs and golf carts, fencing, and building materials. The majority of exhibitors in ArQHA have full-time professions outside the equine industry including doctors, teachers, bankers, engineers, and entrepreneurs. While their professions are diverse, their love for their horses is clear and dedicated.

the GOAL

The goal of the VRH/AQHA/All-Breed shows is to provide a fun environment for riders of all skill levels and horses of all breeds while promoting sportsmanship and furthering the education and horsemanship of the competitors. These shows are designed to provide an affordable place to show and learn for any age exhibitor.

The Arkansas Quarter Horse Association has been a staple in the equine show industry in Arkansas for decades.

Key moments in ArQHA's history:

The first AQHA shows held at the state fair in the late 1950's and early 1960's.

The 1983 Arkansas Jamboree Futurity held at Barton Coliseum with over $100,000 paid out in prize money and ranked third in the nation behind the Congress and Texas Classic that year.

The 1990's when ArQHA shifted its focus towards growing the youth association and taking teams to the Youth World Show each year.

From 2010-20, ArQHA was frequently in Division 1 at Youth World with states like Texas, Oklahoma, and Ohio because of the large number of youth exhibitors it took to compete. On more than one occasion, ArQHA has taken the fourth largest number of youth and horses to Youth World competing out of all 50 states and outside countries.
